Merger positive move for clients

Paraparaumu company AD Architecture and Wellington company Studio 7 Architecture Design have joined forces.

The outcomes of this merger are positive, some of which include:

- A dual office set up in Wellington and Kapiti with 17 staff spread across the business.

- The new business has immense capability with a number of very experienced ADNZ professional members, NZIA accredited staff and three senior documentation technicians.

The same high quality documentation standards will remain.

- The same high quality documentation standards will remain, maintaining or improving efficiency in consenting and construction.

- Better relationships with clients through the development of client relationship management dedicated time and IT resource.

- Improvement in technology use enabling greater collaboration with clients, consultants and on-site contractors.

- In-house spatial design for residential and commercial design projects; this service can be as simple as colour and material consultancy or as in-depth as designing critical layouts and furniture.
