

Tiny rusted cottage wins top design award

05/11/2017

The rusted Madras St workingman's cottages were designed by Mitchell Coll of Coll Architecture and described as an exemplar for urban living by the ADNZ judges. This year's winner of the ADNZ Resene Architectural Design supreme award were two adjoined townhouses just 74sq m each on a 300sq m central city site in Christchurch, all spaces are multi-functional with Judicious detailing, demonstrating a high level of craft and conceptual awareness the judges said, Tony talks with Mitchell Coll Designer Coll Architecture.