

AWARD-WINNING PRACTICE SCOOPS THREE TOP DESIGN AWARDS IN 2016

Over the past 15 years, O'Neil Architecture has cemented its position within the South Island's design sector as a boutique mid to high-end architectural design office, with over 30 regional and national design awards under its belt.

That being said, like most Cantabrians, the team's ultimate focus over the last five years has been supporting clients within the community, rebuilding their homes and assisting them with getting back on their feet - with little time dedicated to competitions or awards.

However, after applying for two highly regarded competitions last year, it came with great excitement and surprise to hear that they had taken out not two, but three of the awards. Two Architectural Designers New Zealand Auckland regional awards were won - with stiff competition within the Auckland market - as well as the 2016 Trends International Design Awards in the New Zealand Architectural Designer New Home category - a national award, soon to be taken to the international field.

"WE ARE ABSOLUTELY HUMBLLED TO HAVE SUCH SUCCESS NATIONWIDE - RECOGNITION OF THIS LEVEL IS INCREDIBLE."

"We are absolutely humbled to have such success nationwide - recognition of this level is incredible," says Practice Manager, Lucy Ross. "We are devoted to delivering exceptional service to our clients and winning these awards has been the icing on the cake for a fantastic year. I love hearing from our clients when we have won an award or are mentioned somewhere high profile, they get just as excited and thrilled about it as we do."
